Want to be a commissioner?

The City of Romulus is looking for a few good people, according to City Council chairperson Mary Ann Banks.

"We have, on numerous occasions, openings on our various commissions and committees and have had to go out to the community looking for responsible people to fill these vacancies," Mrs. Banks said.

Mrs. Banks added that there are no openings on the committees or commissions, at present, "but City Council would like to have an availability list of concerned citizens on hand in order to go to it if and when needed."

The city commissions and committees include: Romulus Officers Compensation Commission, Board of Appeals, Board of Canvassers, Board of Review, Building Authority, Cable Communications Committee, Economic Development Corporation, Housing Commission, Peoples Community Hospital Authority, Planning Commission, Police, Fire and Safety Commission, Recreation Commission and the Romulus Beautification Committee.

Those who are interested in serving on any of the committees or commissions should present a letter to the Council or Mayor's Office at Romulus City Hall.

Homestead tax forms available

The Homestead Aid Property Tax Forms are now available at the City of Romulus' Tax Assessor's Office.

According to City Tax Assessor, Matt Raftary, among those who qualify are senior citizens age 65 or older Z (by December 31, 1983) or handicapped persons who reside in the city.

Romulus plays in Silverdome

Romulus High basketball fans can enjoy a star-studded "double-header" on Friday when Coach Al Wilkerson's Eagles make their first appearance of the year in the Pontiac Silverdome. Romulus will take on Taylor Center at 5 p.m. in their Metro-West Conference debut.

'Routine' New Year

Police say 1984 is off to a very slow start

Unlike a year ago when an air cargo plane crashed, claiming the lives of the pilot and two others, 1984 got off to a "routine start" in Romulus, Safety Director Donald Flood, said today.

No major crimes or fires were reported in the city or the area during the 72-hour New Year's holiday period.

"I really don't have any explanation for it," Flood said, "but it could have been the weather and the road conditions. People apparently stayed home instead of trying to brave the elements."

"And personally I think that was the wise thing to do. We really didn't have anything out of the ordinary happen — a few routine calls, but nothing serious," Flood added.

Area police chiefs echoed Flood's sentiments.

Area residents ushered in the New Year in relative peace and quiet, according to law enforcement agencies. Most of the police reports in the Belleville, Van Buren and Sumpter areas were "routine", police said.

"We had a rough '83 and we hope that this relative calm that started with the new year remains with us throughout the entire year," said Van Buren

Police Chief Leonard Keller.

Chief Keller said that, although it was calm (during the holidays) "there were numerous family quarrels and disturbances reported during the new year weekend."

"It appears a lot of these people were off from work and with their families. Some of them apparently had just a little too much to drink and that triggered some family quarrels," Keller added. "But we didn't get anything that was major."

"We're hoping 1984 will be brighter for all of us," Keller added.

Keller said that he hasn't all of the statistics and is working on them.

Sumpter Police Chief Clinton Brown said that most of his calls during the new year holiday were also routine.

However, a pre-Christmas (Dec. 23) family quarrel ended in the death of a 38-year-old Sumpter man.

Charged with first degree murder is Carl Anthony Bailey, 26, also of Sumpter who is accused in the shooting death of Joseph Lewis Barrow, of 46052 Dunn. Barrow died of rifle shot wounds to the lung and neck, according to Chief Brown.

Chief Brown said that Bailey and Barrow apparently were involved in an argument which led to the shooting. Both men resided at the Dunn address which also was occupied by Gwen Bailey, 36, Carl Anthony's sister.

"We're not sure of the motive," Chief Brown said, "but apparently there was an argument and the defendant took out a rifle and shot the victim. There were several other people including children in the house at the time of the shooting."

Chief Brown said that police officers were dispatched to the scene on a report of a shooting. When they arrived they found Barrow lying on the floor. The victim was alive when, he was rushed to Wayne County General Hospital where he died at 10:45 p.m. on Dec. 23.

Bailey was charged in an out-county court with first degree murder and a second count of possessing a firearm during the commission of a felony.

Bailey was remanded to Wayne County Jail without bond. He is to appear at 10 a.m. today in the Romulus courtroom to answer to those charges.

The New Year celebration also passed in Belleville without major incident, according to police chief Willari Dockter.

"We had four drunk driving arrests, but that's about it," Chief Dockter said. "Guess we were fortunate this time around."

Michigan's traffic toll also declined in 1983 as five persons were reported killed in the state over the 78-hour holiday weekend which ended midnight Monday. During the same period a year ago, 10 persons lost their lives.

Michigan State Police statistics show that 1,294 were killed on state roads last year, compared to 1,417 in 1982. The record was set in 1978 when there were 2,076 killed from 1,850 in 1977.

Couple of winners

Meeting at a recent gathering, Congressman William Ford (D-Taylor) pauses to congratulate Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally for her successful campaign. The two noted Democrats had a lot to chat about and one item of mutual interest was the construction of the new Post Office. Plans are being finalized for the city to build the new facility this spring.

Scrap iron sale irks council

Councilmen ask mayor to investigate

The controversial sale of city-owned scrap-iron by members of the Romulus Department of Public Works sparked City Council action last Tuesday. Council has asked Mayor Beverly McAnally for a full report on the incident.

The employees sold the scrap to a Wayne scrap iron dealer and turned the money over to the Treasurer's Office, according to city officials.

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry said that the employees had "no right to dispose of city property in any form or manner."

"I think it's outrageous that anyone would take steps to dispose of or sell anything that belongs to this city without prior consent of council," Raspberry said. "I believe we need a complete report about what happened."

"It is the council's policy to auction off or dispose of equipment or city property deemed no longer useful to this city at an annual auction. I would like to know where these people got the authority to sell city property."

The scrap reportedly was in the form of fire hydrants that were damaged or destroyed and were not in use.

Safety Director Donald Flood

said that no criminal charges were pending.

"The council has asked for a report from the mayor," Flood added. (Council was scheduled to meet last night. It had rescheduled its regularly scheduled Monday night meeting to Tuesday because of the New Year holiday.)

"I am very pleased that this has been brought to my attention so early in my administration," said Mayor Beverly McAnally. "Apparently this has been an ongoing practice of many years duration."

"And I have now established a policy that will put an immediate halt to any further disposition of junk or scrap that is accumulated at the DPW," Mayor McAnally added.

According to DPW officials, the proceeds from the sale of the scrap iron is used for the employees' Christmas Party.

Police hunt for 2 gunmen who killed Belleville resident

Wayne police are seeking two black males in the shooting death of the manager of the Burger King Restaurant on Michigan Avenue.

Dead of a gunshot wound to the side is Richard Kencer, 41, of Belleville. He was transported from the restaurant to Wayne County General Hospital by Wayne firefighter EMTs at approximately 8:53 p.m. Friday where he died of his injuries.

According to police reports of the incident, two black men entered the restaurant at approximately 8:45 p.m. through the front doors. One of the men, brandishing a small blue-steel revolver, jumped over the counter and entered the food preparation and employee area while the other, reportedly unarmed, knelt on the counter. The men ripped the phone from the wall to prevent employees from sounding an alarm. The gunman fired one shot at random which ricocheted through the facility, and then ordered Kencer, the manager, into the office. Kencer was told to open the safe, and when he declined, explaining that he had no combination and that the device was equipped with a time lock, the gunman shot him for no apparent reason.

The two then fled out the front door, leaving five working employees, Kencer, and a sixth employee who was off-duty in the restaurant. An assistant manager fled through a window and ran to the nearby Big Boy Restaurant where he phoned police. Another employee ran to his car and drove directly to the police station to report the shooting.

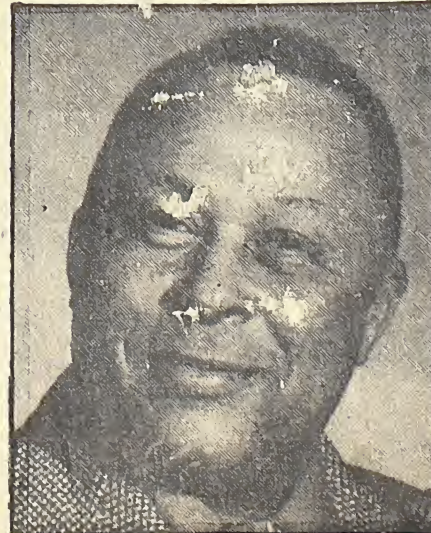

The pair took nothing from the establishment as they fled in an unknown direction, according to police reports.

A possible witness to their escape is an unknown woman who was interrupted while placing her carry-out order at the outside microphone by the robbery. A police spokesman indicated that the woman was halfway through her order when the employee shut off the microphone. The woman, in her 30s or 40s, then drove around to the pick up window where she may have seen the men flee the building. "We would very much like to speak with this woman. She may not have seen anything, then again, she may have some information," explained Lt. Bill Whitworth.

Whitworth explained that the Wayne police are working with other departments in the investigation of the crime. "There have been similar incidents in other communities," Whitworth said, "and we are working with them on this case."

Information regarding the murder can be referred to Whitworth at 721-1598.

RASPBERRY

Raftary promoted to assessor position

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally has announced the promotion of Matthew Raftary from Deputy City Assessor to City Assessor.

"The Assessor's Department is one of the very few city departments where the qualifications of city employees is dictated by state law," said Mayor McAnally. "We are very pleased to have somebody on our staff who possesses those qualifications."

Raftary, 29, has been employed by the city as Deputy Assessor since February of 1983. Before coming to Romulus, he was the residential appraiser for the City of Dearborn for two years.

Raftary is certified as a Level 3 Assessor by the Michigan State Assessor's Board.

Level 4 is the highest that can be obtained.

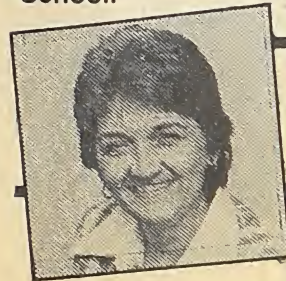

A 1978 graduate of Henry Ford Community College, Raftary possesses a degree in Computer Science and is a member of the International Association of Assessing Officers, Michigan Assessor's Association and the Southeast Chapter of the Michigan Association of Assessing Officers.

Raftary, during his off time, works with Big Brother, Big Sister Program and enjoys skiing and golfing.

Your responses to my column are most appreciated. Please continue to write to me at 41711 Joy Road, Canton, MI 48187 or call me at 455-8892.

HAVE YOU BEEN TOLD THAT YOU CAN'T USE YOUR OWN CHARGE ACCOUNT?

"Dear Letter Writer: I was living with a male friend, and we had a joint account at a department store. When my friend and I split up, I went to the department store and asked them to please remove his name and address from the account and send all further bills to me. I just got a letter from the store saying that the account is overdue and that I can't charge anymore.

This isn't fair. They didn't do what I asked them.

Sincerely, Ms. S"
"Dear Department Store:

During the first part of June, 1982, I went, personally, to your Department Store at Westland, Michigan. I, at that time, signed a form accepting full responsibility for the balance of the above referenced account (which is presently in the amount of $48.77). I also requested that inasmuch as there has been a separation between Mr. Jones and myself, I would appreciate his name being removed from the account referenced above.

Enclosed is my check in the amount of $25, which I understand to be the requisite payment.

I recently received a letter from you stating that a "hold" would be placed on my account until it is paid in full.

I do not accept the position you are taking as, in spite of my personal request, you have not sent the statement to my address and I have, therefore, not received it and could not pay it. Please reinstate my charge privileges.

Sincerely, Ms. S"

"RESOLUTION: The Departemnt Store corrected the billing address and immediately reinstated Ms. S's charge privileges."

"THE FRIEND OF THE COURT — WHOSE FRIEND ARE THEY?"

"Dear Letter Writer: I have been divorced since September 5, 1980 and I have never received child support from my ex-husband. What can I do? I can't afford a lawyer and everything is so complicated.

Sincerely, Ms. P"

"Dear Friend of the Court:

This letter is written to request an Immediate Enforcement of the child support awarded in the Default Judgment of Divorce of September 5, 1980, in the above-referenced matter.

As your files will reflect, the child support ordered was $150, per week, per child. There are three minor children at issue.

I have, as of July 5, 1983, received no child support whatsoever from the Defendant. Inasmuch as 146 weeks have elapsed and the total amount now owed to me is $65,700, I separately need your help in Enforcing the Divorce Judgment. The Defendant presently resides at 1111 Brown St., Brown, Michigan.

In addition, as of July 5, 1983, the Defendant has not provided medical/health insurance for any of the minor children nor has he borne any of the cost of medical/health expenditures. I am in the process of determining those amounts paid by me to date and will provide you with the same, when available.

Sincerely, Ms. P"

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

By John Brimble

Graduate student at Yale has programmed a computer to devise new recipes utilizing foods on hand, always considering personal preferences, etc. In our day, MOTHER did that.

Slip a couple of strips of fresh red bell pepper into a sandwich. It's as tasty and moist as roast pepper, with a nice crunchy texture.

For best results with buttercream, spread a thin layer over cake and refrigerate to set the cake crumbs. Then smooth on finishing frosting.

Keep heat low if you're adding cheese to a sauce. High temperature will make it tough and stringy.

It's fun to make professional-looking chocolate curls with a potato peeler and room-temperature chocolate squares. Vary pressure to make curls of different thicknesses.

It's fun to eat out at Captain Nemo's.

Winter is beautiful

Winter is beautiful especially if you're a winter sports enthusiast and when there is snow on the ground. There's plenty of the fluffy white stuff in the area and now, instead of heading for Boyne Mountain, Van Buren wants residents to enjoy skiing right at home. Supervisor George Craven (above) announced this week the opening of Van Buren Park for cross-country skiing at no charge. Craven got out his skis to open up the trails. He says skiing is an excellent way to keep in shape and you don't have to go miles from home this year to enjoy it."

W-W gets approval for split tax plan

The Wayne-Westland Community Schools will be following in the footsteps of neighboring school districts by levying half of its yearly tax levy in the summer and the remainder in the winter.

The Board of Education last week approved by a 6-1 vote to split the district's taxes in two equal amounts and levy them on the July and December tax bills.

The district is taking advantage of Public Act 333 of 1982, which permits school districts to impose the summer tax levy, and now must petition municipalities within its boundaries to collect those taxes.

Indications are that Wayne and Westland, which make up a major portion of the 19,000-student district, will agree to the twice yearly collections. However, according to John Baracy, assistant superintendent for business and finance, it appears Canton Township will decline. It already has turned down a similar request by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

"A fair number of senior citizens will end up paying more because they will have to take the money out of the bank sooner."

— Trustee Fred Warmbier

Canton's rejection will not stop twice yearly collection in that portion of school district. Under the state law, the district can request the county to collect the tax, do it itself or employ an outside firm, such as a bank, to handle the collection.

Baracy has contacted the major mortgage holders in the district to ensure that there will not be problems with escrow accounts, when the tax collection change takes place next July. He also has vowed that the district will serve as an advocate for homeowners that may incur problems.

Estimates are that the twice yearly collection, if it had been in use in the district in 1982-83 and this year, would have saved some $1.9 million, the difference between the amount of interest paid on tax anticipation notes (money borrowed against anticipated tax revenues) and the amount of investment income lost.

Since the 1981 school year the district has paid out $2.82 million in interest on loans, including a projected $800,000 for the 1983-84 school year.

The lone school board trustee opposing the twice yearly collection was Fred Warmbier, who pointed out that senior citizens in the district will end up paying more due to a loss of interest income.

"A fair number of senior citizens will end up paying more because they will have to take the money out of the bank sooner," Warmbier explained. "I'm a senior citizen, and someone has to represent them."

Graying of America

PCHA to offer insights on: Later Life-A Positive Direction

Between 1970 and 1980 the 65 and older population in the Peoples' Community Hospital Authority service area increased by 34 percent while the general population increased by only one percent.

In response to what health care planners have termed the "graying of America," PCHA will present a twelve-week course through the Taylor and Wyandotte Public Schools, Community Education Departments, on the unique health care needs of the elderly.

The course will be offered in two parts. Part one, "Later Life: A Positive Direction," will be an overview of the aging process and will be offered during the winter term beginning February, 1984.

Part two, "Caring for the Elderly in the Home Environment," will teach skills to enable families to provide basic care for elderly relatives in the home. Part two is tentatively scheduled for the spring of 1984. Part one is a prerequisite for part two.

"Enrollment is intended for anyone who is in a caregiver role for elderly persons, either professionally or personally," said Linda Morris, R.N., Director of Nursing at Outer Drive Hospital. "We are particularly concerned with reaching those people who care for elderly parents in the home. While much has been done for elderly people in our society, there is a lack of support services for the families of older adults. Whether they need information on choosing a nursing home or have made the decision to care for the parent in the home, the class will provide the practical information they need."

An aging population presents unique challenges to the community, both medically and financially. Recent trend in home health care, Medicare reimbursement and insurance regulations encourage home care for the elderly. Topics will include myths and realities of the aging process, communication concerns, nutrition, drug use and abuse, family relationships, legal and financial needs and community resources and support organizations.

Part two will present topics tailored to the unique needs of the individual participants. Topics will include personal hygiene such as bathing, skin care, etc., as well as lifting and moving safety, emergency care, administration of medicine, dietary needs, recreational needs and cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

Presenters of the class will be nursing instructors and staff from all five PCHA units: Annapolis, Beyer Memorial, Heritage, Outer Drive, and Seaway hospitals. Additional information will be provided by representatives from The Information Center of Wyandotte and Life Management Skills, Inc., a geriatric consultant group.

The class is a cooperative effort between PCHA and the Taylor Community Education Department with assistance provided by Bill Pfeiffer, Assistant Director, and Jackie Kampfert, Special Projects Director, and between PCHA and the Wyandotte Community Schools with assistance provided by Carney Dittmer, Director of Community Education.

Registration for the class begins the week of January 23, 1984, for both Taylor and Wyandotte Community Education. In Taylor, Part I will begin February 9, from 7-9 p.m. at the Taylor Career Center, 9601 Westlake. In Wyandotte, Part I will begin January 31, from 7-9 p.m. at the Wilson Community Education Center, 1275 15th Street. The registration fee is $40 and the course is non-credit.

Persons living outside of Taylor and Wyandotte are welcome to apply. For registration information on "Our Aging Society" call the Taylor Department of Education at 287-2075, or Wyandotte Community Education at 283-1970.

Beard to chair county agency

Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard has been reappointed Chairman of the Social Services and Services to the Aging Committee of the Michigan Association of Counties (MAC).

The reappointment was announced by new MAC President Max Graybiel, who succeeded Wayne County Commissioner Samuel A. Turner in that post. Beard was first appointed to the committee by Turner in February, and with reappointment by Graybiel, continues an unexpired two-year term.

The committee studies social service and aging issues, and legislation concerning needs, and recommends policy to the MAC Board of Directors.

The MAC is a statewide organization of elected and appointed county officials who develop programs on all matters of county government. With a membership comprising most of the counties in Michigan, the MAC headquarters is in Lansing.

On the County Commission, Beard is Chairman of the Human Resources Committee, and a member of the Ways and Means Committee, General Government Committee and Committee of the Whole, the only commissioner to serve on all four.

In addition, Beard has for four years served on the National Association of Counties (NACo) Human Services Steering Committee, and for two years served on the NACo Social Services Sub-committee as well as Child Care Fund Advisory Committee.

DEPRESSION

'Rule out' disease isn't so uncommon

"Doctor, I've been having headaches. I'm always tired. I don't have any energy."
"My back's been bothering me, doctor, and I've been sleeping more than usual."

To family physicians, these are familiar complaints. When examination and testing reveal no physical causes, the patient's problem may be depression.

"Depression is a 'rule out' disease," says Robert B. Raskin, MD, a neurologist. "Family doctors, the professionals most likely to see depressed patients, often diagnose it by ruling out all the other possibilities."

The textbook symptoms of depression may be absent early on. Instead, some people may experience physical complaints — headache, back pain, digestive problems, restlessness ("nerves") and fatigue — that mimic other diseases. In the absence of typical signs of depression, diagnosis can be difficult. As a result, primary care physicians are sometimes misled and attempt to treat the symptoms instead of the underlying disorder.

In addition, different physicians use somewhat different criteria for diagnosing depression.

Characteristic signs of depression include loss of appetite, insomnia or early morning awakening, lethargy, excessive sleeping, eating too much or too little and loss of interest in or enthusiasm for formerly pleasurable activities. Feelings of worthlessness and guilt are regarded as common denominators of depression, but may not be readily apparent.

Clinical depression, that is serious enough to warrant treatment, is defined by the American Psychiatric Association as the presence nearly daily of at least four symptoms like those above for a period of at least two weeks.

Patients with severe depression generally have difficulty thinking and concentrating. Recurrent thoughts of illness and death plague them. Some believe they're terminally ill. Others wish for death, and some attempt suicide.

Anxiety commonly accompanies depression. . . The relationship is complex and controversial. Most mental health professionals regard them as separate entities. Others believe them manifestations of the same problem.

According to some specialists, infants and pre-schoolers can develop depression-like symptoms — withdrawal, listlessness, sad faces, refusal to eat — in response to severe stress. However, other than in instances of traumatic separation from a parent, child abuse or debilitating physical illness, depression is uncommon in this age group.

Commenting on his studies with infants and toddlers of manic-depressive parents, Leon Cytryn, M.D., of the National Institute of Mental Health, says, "We see non-specific disturbances — insecure attachments to their mothers, inability to regulate fear and anger and more behavioral problems than in normal children. Depression usually doesn't crystallize in these children before age six. Then we can diagnose it using adult criteria."

Elva Poznanski, M.D., professor of psychiatry at the University of Illinois Medical Center in Chicago, believes that depression in 6- to 12-year-olds is massively underdiagnosed and disregarded.

"I did a follow-up study on children evaluated as depressed in an out-patient clinic," she said. "They were not treated for depression, largely because of parent apathy. Six years later, 50 percent of the kids were still depressed. Many children do not outgrow depression. It must be taken seriously."

According to Dr. Poznanski, the cluster of symptoms of childhood depression — sadness, low self-esteem social withdrawal, declining schoolwork, changes in activity level, behavior problems and psychosomatic symptoms — can be subtle and easily misinterpreted or overlooked.

Depression is more widespread among the elderly than many people realize. Symptoms in this age group include reversible mental confusion. Unfortunately, there is a tendency to think of confused older people as senile. However, if the cause of the confusion is depression and if the depression is treated, the confusion generally subsides.

Rating scales, questionnaires concerning the major symptoms of depression, sometimes are used in helping assess the severity of the problem, but they are not diagnostic. The rating scale quantifies symptoms. In the end, however, the health professional's overall impression of the patient's condition determines the diagnosis.

The costs and dangers of "waiting out" untreated depression can be considerable. Depression may mean not only months of anguish for the depressed person and those close to him or her, but also business, academic and marital problems.

Alcohol abuse is common among the depressed. More than 50,000 people die in auto accidents each year. At least half of these deaths are believed to be alcohol-related.

Myrna M. Weissman, PhD, professor of psychiatry and epidemiology at the Yale University School of Medicine, New Haven, Conn., found that people who have suffered from a cluster of depressive symptoms for a week or more, but do not receive treatment specifically for depression, make frequent visits to non-psychiatric physicians. Two-thirds of the depressed individuals in her study — greater than twice the percentage for non-depressed people — averaged more than six visits in a year.

But the most serious problem of depression is suicide. An estimated 25,000 or more suicides occur in the U.S. each year, and there are approximately 200,000 attempted suicides. An estimated 15 percent of patients with clinical depression eventually commit suicide, and depressive illness, it's estimated, is associated with approximately 50 percent of suicides.

Males in general have higher suicide rates than females, with the highest rate by far among elderly white males. Most of those attempting suicide in the U.S. are young, white females, and although the female rate remains consistently well below that for males, some observers believe female suicide may be on the rise.

Among people aged 15 to 24, suicide is now the third leading cause of death (behind accidents and homicides), according to the National Center for Health Statistics. The suicide rate for males in this group has increased from fewer than 5 suicides per 100,000 people in the 1940s and 1950s to more than 20 per 100,000 in 1980. U.S. Bureau of Census figures indicate that typical suicidal youngsters are white — minorities have a much lower incidence — urban and middle or upper class.

Experts suggest one factor that makes some young people particularly vulnerable to suicidal impulses is that they fail to conceptualize death as final. Also, developmentally, adolescents lack the experience of adults and consequently may not be able to put present failures into perspective. Instead of viewing a rejection or setback as temporary, they may regard it as a permanent fixture in their future; thus, they may easily be overwhelmed by a sense of hopelessness.

Knowledge and resources are essential in suicide prevention.

Kostelic, Jackson exchange vows

Boston ferns with white-tipped blue carnations and blue pewbrows with silk flowers provided the setting for the recent nuptial of Debra L. Kostelic of Belleville and David Jackson of Dearborn.

The bride is the daughter of John and Nancy Kostelic of Belleville, while her bridegroom is the son of Rita Jackson of Dearborn and William Jackson of Union Lake.

The bride chose a gown of sheer organza, trimmed with silk venise motifs on the front of the skirt and center back of the chapel length train. The semi-empire bodice and semi-bishop sleeves also were trimmed with a wide bridal cuff, with the upper part of the sleeve trimmed with a given bridal point capeffect. The bodice with a Queen Ann neckline was of silk and venise lace accented with pearls and sequins.

A crown-like headpiece, also detailed with pearls and sequins, held a blusher calf-length veil, applied with flower motifs cut from lace the bride and her mother purchase in Rome in 1973. Her bouquet was a cascade style of silk white rose buds, light blue tipped white azeleas overlaid with lace petals, lace starflowers, lily of the valley, status and English ivy caught up with white and blue ribbons.

The bride was escorted to the altar of Calvary Baptist Church in Romulus by her father. Officiating the double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Dallas Berry, with Mrs. Sharon Hawkes, the bride's aunt, providing the musical accompaniment.

Long-time friend, Mrs. Kim Buchanan of Ypsilanti, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Leslie Jackson of Hollywood, California, sister of the groom; Mrs. Sharon Brewer of Dearborn, cousin of the bride; Terry Templeman of Ypsilanti, friend of the bride; and Vicki Hawkes of Milford, cousin of the bride.

They wore gowns of royal blue taffeta with puffed and gathered short sleeves and a V-neckline. A wide sash accented the gowns. The honor attendant wore a haircomb with petit white rosebuds and royal blue starflowers and carried a bouquet of white rosebuds, medium blue carnations, royal blue starflowers and white ribbon tufts. The attendants wore haircombs with light blue rosebuds and royal blue starflowers, while their bouquets were of light blue rosebuds, medium blue carnations, royal blue starflowers and light blue ribbon tufts.

The groom asked a friend, Frank Bleja of Dearborn, to serve as best man. Serving as ushers were Bruce Jackson, brother of the groom, Joe Swick of Birmingham, Bill Marowa of Florida, and Ron Mallord of Dearborn, friends of the groom.

Custom-made
Autorama has something for you

TV stars, sports celebrities, the famous "Knight Rider" car from TV, plus 500 gleaming custom street rods, trucks, buggies and drag boats are main attractions at America's most popular automotive event, the annual Autorama scheduled for Jan. 6-8 at Cobo Hall, Detroit.

Each of the three days of the show, monster truck "USA-1" of "That's Incredible" TV show will crunch-a-bunch of full sized cars by being driven over them.

The 32nd Detroit Autorama will host the teenage heart-throb John Stanos who plays "Blackie" of "General Hospital" and John James, the dashing "Jeff Colby" of "Dynasty." They will be making appearances and signing autographs Saturday and Sunday. The infamous Morganna, "The Kissing Bandit" and Hollywood auto designer George Barris also will be making appearances along with custom vehicles of all types.

Seven local radio stations are also participating, and listeners can meet some of their on-air personalities over the weekend. CKLW's Count Scary also will be making appearances and signing autographs Saturday and Sunday.

While most of the cars entered will be exhibited by Michigan car builders, entries have been received from many states across the country.

The Detroit Autorama is one of the largest shows of its kind of the new Winston Championship Auto Show series. Of the 200 shows each season, the Detroit event is the most popular and prestigious, with more prize money and trophies than any other show in the country.

With more than 100 categories for everything from custom rods, trucks and vans, to drag boats and antique cars, motorsports fans and automotive connoisseurs will have their fill at Autorama. One of these categories include six Detroit-area high schools who spent several years evolving junked cars into classy show models.

Besides individual entries, several professionally built "feature" cars also will be displayed. Among them will be the famous talking Trans Am, K.I.T.T., from the hit TV show "Knight Rider;" the world's first 100 miles-per-gallon hot rod, "Turbo-T;" and USA-1, the world's largest 4x4 pickup truck.

Autorama opens Friday at 5 p.m. and runs until 12 a.m. Saturday and Sunday hours are 11 a.m. to midnight. Ticket prices are $6 for adults and $2 for children 12 and under; children 5 years old and under are free.

our opinions

Now what?

Sounding knell for Romulus schools

It was Aesop, we believe, who noted that “We would often be sorry if our wishes were gratified.”

The wishes of the Romulus Community School District’s 230 plus teachers “were gratified” recently when the courts ruled that they were entitled to the money that the school board had cut from their wages a year ago. The 22 percent roll-back enforced unilaterally in December of 1983 had triggered a wave of resentment and bitterness which neither side forgot.

It robbed the teachers of approximately $6,000 each, which will be paid back over a period of five to six years by the schools.

But, as Dr. William Bedell, Superintendent of Schools, noted “We don’t have the money. It will put us (the schools) in a deficit of approximately $1 million by the end of the school year. That means there will be no school in the fall if we don’t receive any new revenues.”

“New revenues” is translated that a millage proposal will be on the ballot in the near future.

But Romulus, like most of the area school districts, is not noted for passing millages. Residents refused to approve a small millage hike to raise money to eliminate the asbestos in the high school ceiling. There is a gaping hole in the high school auditorium ceiling, and it stays there as a grim reality that residents won’t pay for their schools.

Dr. Bedell’s noteworthy recommendations and proposals go down the drain.

Frustrated, most administrators are washing their hands off the entire situation. Building after building is being closed and programs eliminated in cost-saving moves.

And it leads us to ask: Where will it all end?

The teachers got their money.

And even the school board got into the act by voting themselves a pay hike.

Reason just doesn’t seem to exist in Romulus these days.

Belated ‘thank you’
They’re really Goodfellows

The holidays are behind us and a new year lies ahead. But, before we leap into this ‘leap year’ and the presidential campaign, there are some loose ends to tie up and a host of “thank yous” to a group of volunteers who took the anguish and pain of what could have been a “Christmasless” year for many families and children.

The Goodfellows got the job done again for thousands in the area and the county.

And last week’s story about hundreds of area families who are still seeking and requesting food baskets in written proof that the depression has not dissipated. People are hungry, despite what Mr. Meese says. Does he really believe the food lines are mirages?

The Goodfellows for nearly 75 years have provided a package of hope to the needy. They have solicited funds during the most inclement of weather and times and have done it with only one thought in mind: to make certain that those in need during a most joyous time of the year are not forgotten.

The Goodfellows have enriched the lives of millions and by doing so enriched their own being. They give meaning to life and brotherhood.

There are many organizations and service clubs that are working to help and lift those whose lives have been less fortunate than others, and we’re thankful that those in the Goodfellows have uninterruptedly carried on the good work.

And it should not be forgotten that the Goodfellows’ work is not a one-day, one week or month ordeal. They exist 12 months of the year and put their resourcefulness to work in order that their goals are reached.

If you wish to help or contribute, contact your local Goodfellows’ group now.

Disband public education

The vehemence with which the public education establishment opposes merit pay is revealing. Organized teachers groups and the bureaucrats who cater to them panic at the thought of being paid on the basis of performance rather than on tenure and longevity.

Their argument is rather curious: merit pay would not increase performance, and indeed, might induce discouragement and reduced performance. However, increased pay for all teachers would raise performance, and is desperately needed, since teachers are “underpaid.”

It is easy to see why so many public school teachers would argue in this fashion — almost everyone would like to be guaranteed a higher real income without having to do anything specific for it.

But which incentive system would in fact motivate improved performance: one which rewards all teachers whether they improve or not, or one which targets specific rewards to specific attained performance levels?

As for teachers being underpaid, there is only one way of knowing whether or not that is true, and that is if they begin leaving the profession and a shortage of teachers appears. Even then, as any economist knows, that is a self-correcting mechanism.

The recent rise in public school teachers’ real (inflation adjusted) compensation, following its slight decline in the 1970s, may be indicative of this process. So perhaps higher salaries in general are warranted (and perhaps not).

But why should that preclude the institutionalization of merit pay?

Higher general pay and merit pay are not mutually exclusive alternatives. This fact leaves one suspicious about the motives of teachers who present them as such and passionately oppose the latter.

Much of this passionate opposition recently has been directed at President Reagan for his advocacy of merit pay.

The only weakness in the President’s plan, however, is that it does not go far enough.

The ultimate problem with public education is precisely that it is public. As such, it is removed from all those market processes which select among superior and inferior products and motivate efficient resource use.

Why is this the case?

The justification some economists offer for public education rests on an assumption that there are ‘external benefits’ to society at large from individuals’ educations. Hence, market profitability calculations based entirely on private costs and benefits would result in a less than socially optimal level of expenditure on education. Thus, public subsidization of education is justified.

Noneconomists, on the other hand, usually argue for educational subsidy as a means of insuring equality of access to education for all economic classes.

It would be easy to show that both of these arguments are weak, but the most vital point is that even if one admits (as I do not) the necessity for public subsidization of education, there is still no justification for state operation of schools!

Education vouchers, issued to parents for the full per pupil cost (say the average cost at private institutions), would allow them to pay for their children’s education at the private school of their choice. Public school facilities could be sold or leased to private parties (who would themselves often be former public school teachers or administrators), increasing the supply of private schools and the demand for them simultaneously.

There would be few, if any, disadvantages, and many advantages to such a system. Private schools must compete with each other for students, in both educational quality and price, which keeps quality up and price down. This is not mere ideology, but demonstratable fact.

The 1981 Coleman report found that when demographic factors were controlled statistically, private schools on average did a much better job of educating children than did public schools on average. What is more, the total per-pupil cost is lower in the private schools than in the public schools when both tuition and the current public subsidy to the latter are considered.

Catholic schools, for example, spend less than $1000 per pupil per year, while the public school average is significantly above $2000 for a comparatively inferior education (the differential is not quite so large for many non-religious private schools, but they pay taxes).

A voucher system involving a complete shift to private education would thus result in provision of the same or a greater level of education (in terms of student-years), but one of a higher quality imparted at a fraction of the current total cost.

Not only would society gain, but state finances would improve significantly as educational subsidies declined and revenues increased from the sales and leases of buildings and from taxes paid by the new private schools.

Clearly any ‘external benefits’ or equality of opportunity to be gained from educational subsidy would be captured by such a system, and at lower cost than under public operation of schools.

So why is a voucher system subject to such rigid, unyielding opposition from the educational establishment, even in the face of the accelerating disintegration of public education?

Precisely, it seems, because it is not the attainment of external benefits, equality of access or even educational quality that motivates them so much as the desire to protect their status, tenure and monolithic control over the minds of children.

Dynamite Park

Tom Mooradian
Managing Editor

Does the past history of Dynamite Park have anything to do with causing cancer in residents who live in the area of the now abandoned Wayne parkway?

That haunting question leaves scores of people seeking answers.

Ron Hames, a Sears salesman who has terminal cancer, believes that chemicals dumped in the park years ago by the Wayne County General Hospital has led to cancer among those who live in the neighborhood.

That neighborhood, aging rapidly, is east of Merriman, and bounded by Annapolis, Gloria and Carlyle. It is behind what was once the “old Carpenter Dodge Dealership.”

Hame’s wife also died of cancer two years ago.

“We believe that someone should look into the high rate of cancer in the area and investigate whether they can pinpoint the problem to the chemicals dumped in the park.

“It may be too late for me. Hames is quoted as saying, “but maybe not for someone else.”

Owned by Wayne County, the park once boasted softball diamonds and was a popular picnic place. It received its name from a now abandoned practice of county employees storing dynamite in a small building in the park.

The recent revelation, of course, has stirred a lot of controversy. However, residents in the area will not participate in a mass exodus. They’re going to stick it out.

One such resident is Fred Warmbier who, with his wife and family, has resided in the Gloria Acres Subdivision since 1957. He said he isn’t ready to push any panic button.

“I really don’t think that anyone is ready to panic over all of this,” said Warmbier, “and I don’t see anyone down there running any tests. However, I don’t think it would be out of line to have a county or state agency come in here and run some tests.”

The 64-year-old Warmbier points out that “the neighborhood is not a young one.”

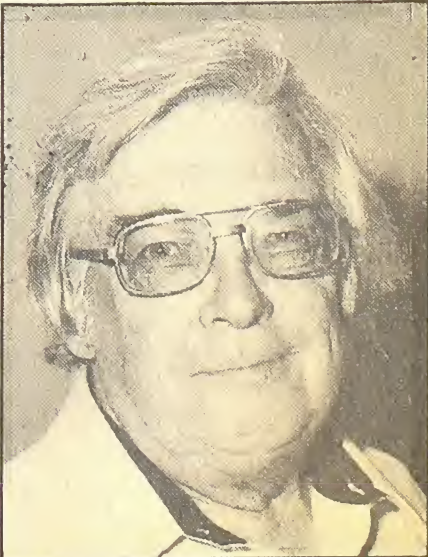

“There are a lot of people up in age here and I know we are all going to die of something sometime. We just can’t control what the good Lord has in store for us. When and if it happens it will happen.

“Unfortunately, cancer is a disease that is prevalent now and scares the hell out of people. But what are we going to do?”

Wayne city officials have moved quickly in hopes of separating facts from fiction. They have invited Dr. Van Guisen, who heads the Wayne County Health Department, to attend this week’s City Council meeting. (The council met Tuesday night).

“We want all the information we can get,” said Tom Daily, Wayne City Manager. “And Dr. Guisen will be available to answer questions. In fact, Dr. Guisen, Mayor Pat Norton and myself met with Mr. Hames to discuss the situation.

“So far we can’t establish in any way the connection between the rate of cancer in residents in that area to anything in the park. But we will do everything we can to get some answers, if there are any,” Daily added.

reflections

Here's a bit of nostalgia

The holidays are over. The Christmas tree, which just a few hours ago stood in sparkling splendor, lies forlorn on the snow... its days of glory over. The Christmas glogg has been drunk, and the presents all put away. And it's time for the New Year and all that New Year will bring!

As I write this, the sun is streaming through the window of my den, and outside the snow is parking, tiny, shiny diamonds twinkling on the frozen curst. This is the way it used to be in Idaho when I was a little girl, and it was just such a day when I discovered that giving is so much better than getting. I discovered that giving can fill your heart with joy, and the spirit within you feels as though it is expanding out, out into the Cosmos and mingling there with all the joy and love of the universe.

It was in the very depth of the depression. My father had popped the popcorn with which to decorate the tree, and my little sister and I had sat, side by side, before the fire, and strung the popcorn on long cords of string. Mother was playing the piano, and out side the snow was falling fast and furious, and there was a cold wind blowing, making eerie sounds around the house, and finding each little crack through which to whip and choll one's very bones.

But there on the rug before the fire, with our father leaning back in his chair listening to mother's playing, it seemed cozy and warm and the winter chill was only something to put up with... not think about.

And then my little sister got up from the rug and went over to mother and leaned against her.

"I don't feel so good," she whispered, and mother put her hand against my little sister's forehead and saw that it was hot. She lifted her up and carried her to bed, where she watched anxiously over her until she had fallen asleep.

For several days my little sister barely recognized that Christmas was almost there, and she barely heard mother as she told us, gently, that we must not expect any presents that year, for there was no money anywhere in the land, and without money, Santa could never buy the material with which to make the toys. I understood, and somewhere inside of me I knew that somehow Santa and father were intertwined in such a way that was hard to define. I knew that once father found money, somehow Santa would find money. And so I nodded my head, and I assured my mother that I understood, and I agreed that Christmas was more than presents, but each night when she tucked me into bed, I would bury my head in the pillow and pray that somehow, Christmas morning would find presents under the tree.

And then the day before Christmas the fever struck me and I was so sick. I burrowed down into the covers, and even my mother's hand on my forehead didn't alleviate my miserableness. I couldn't even wobble from my bed on Christmas morning, when through the windows the sun danced invitingly, and outside the snow twinkled and glistened in its diamond dressing.

My little sister was still confined to her bed across the room and so it was, that mother came walking in with two presents in her hand and went first to my little sister's bed.

"Honeys," she said. "I was able to buy these two small presents, but when I got them home, I knew that one was so much prettier than the other, that I didn't wrap them, and I am going to let you pick which one you want." And she held out to us a small blue velvet box. The most beautiful blue velvet, and in its luxurious folds, lay a tiny scissors and nail file, all gleaming gold. Its beauty was breathtaking. The other present was a tiny box, just a plain little old box, with two small bottles of nail polish.

The big brown eyes of my little sister grew ever larger as she looked at the beauty of that blue velvet. "Oooooooh," she whispered, and reached a tiny hand towards it. And then she remembered. We had to choose. She drew back her hand and looked up at mother, and then back at the blue velvet box.

"Ooooooh," she whispered. Mother turned to me. "You are the oldest, honey," she said, smiling at me, "and just now the sickest. Which present do you want?" Which present, indeed. The Queen herself would choose that elegant, blue velvet, with its gleaming gold accessories. My stomach tied up in knots. I wanted it so bad! And then I looked at my little sister. Her brown eyes were fastened on the magical box, and her heart was sitting right up there on her tiny face, so pale from her recent illness. Squeezing my eyes shut so I couldn't see the splendor of the velvet, I pointed to the box with the nail polish.

When it dawned on my little sister that the blue velvet was hers, she let out a mighty gasp and clasped the box to her. She turned to me, and the smile which lit her face, made the whole room shine from the glory of it, and my own heart responded to that smile, and the whole room lit up, and such joy as I had never experienced surged through me.

I lay down on my pillow, and my mother pulled the covers up around my face. She leaned down and kissed me and whispered, "God love you, baby..." And the room once more swam with joy, and I didn't even mind being sick, after all, on Christmas Day the year the banks all failed.

Fitzgerald (back page of the Free Press) did it just last week, and it was as clever a column as he's written all year.

So clever, in fact, that I immediately set about re-reading all 52 of my own 1983 columns to see if I might do the same.

I mightn't.

So I'll end this by thanking all of you who have taken the time to tell me, good or bad, what you think of what I'm doing here — and by wishing you a happier 1984.

And if it isn't happier, keep in mind that, now that you know how to do it, all your memories can be better ones.

Holiday greeting to ANP staff

EDITOR — As we extend "Seasons Greetings" to members of your staff, let us also extend our sincere appreciation to you for your generous news coverage of our school district by the Associated Newspapers' Inkster Ledger Star edition.

With the ending of another year close at hand, in retrospect, we think of the generous coverage the Inkster Ledger Star has provided the Westwood Schools and the school community.

Too, we think of the professional manner in which facts were reported as related to Westwood events. For this, please accept our "We thank you" with anticipation for continued outstanding news coverage as we look forward to the beginning of a prosperous and happy new year.

To diabetics in the area

EDITOR — May I direct this letter to all the diabetics in your newspapers circulated area.

My mother died recently from sugar. She was paralyzed, blind, her whole body was infected. I can't count the times she had been operated on while she was in the hospital. Her sugar count was 700.

She suffered and fought hard for her life and God felt He couldn't make her suffer any longer and took her from her family.

But I have some advise for diabetics and their families. Don't let your sugar go out of control; stick by your diet, if you are on insulin don't try and regulate it yourself. Don't let your family see you suffer and go through pain and don't let yourself go through pain.

I'm a border line, and I see what can happen. Sugar should never be played with.

Nice going board members!

EDITOR — Are the taxpayers of Romulus aware that school board members Campbell, King, Langely and Marvicsin have recently voted to pay themselves $30 a meeting retroactive to July 1, 1983?

They defend their actions by saying other communities pay their board members, but considering our schooldoors may soon close; we don't have enough textbooks to go around; our buildings are falling apart; and our bus fleet is a mess; isn't their timing incredible?

Why now? Why not at least wait until we get back on our feet. This action can only be considered irresponsible, even greedy, and should not go unnoticed.

Find sane way to dispose waste

EDITOR — There must be a sane way to dispose of toxic material and wastes. And I believe that any firm that creates such wastes should be responsible for disposing of them.

Those firms also should be responsible for contributing to the research for finding better solutions of disposing wastes. If firms comes up with monetary rewards for finding a solution to this problem, it won't take long before we have that solution.

1983 was a good year to forget

Columnists, I've noticed, always seem to think that the beginning of a new year requires the obligatory "recap" column. Either as a recap of significant events during the year gone by, or as a recap of his or her (the columnist's) past year's significant columns.

Well, for two reasons, I'm inclined to do neither. First, if I were to recap significant events of the year gone by, I would have to do it by means of a significant amount of research — which means work. I mean it a point, at the beginning of each new year, to forget there ever was a year before. And, if I remember right, 1983 was a good year to forget.

That isn't to say that I'll never remember or write about anything that happened in 1983. If my own peculiar pattern follows, I figure by 1993 I'll be remembering selected bits and pieces of 1983. And, if my own peculiar pattern follows, I'll be remembering 1983 my way — which is to say, not necessarily the way things actually happened.

It's one of the perks writers enjoy — if you write about things far enough removed from the time they actually happened, you can color them any way you choose.

For example, I wrote a column a while back about the joys of spending time in a barn. I talked about how, when I was a kid, I spent time in Old Man Piirala's barn.

I said, "Old Man Piirala was a crusty, grumpy sort... The only time I ever saw Old Man Piirala smile was when he sat on his three-legged milk stool and squirted cow's milk at the cat. He actually laughed out loud when it missed the cat's mouth and got him in the eye, instead."

My mother read that particular column and said, "Interesting — that part about Old Man Piirala."

"Good," I said. "Very interesting," she said. "Especially since Old Man Piirala died long before you were even born."

"Are you sure?" I said. "You ninny," she said. "It must have been Mrs. Piirala. Except it couldn't have been, because she was hardly crusty or grumpy. She barely said 'boo' to a fly. It must have been Albert."

Albert was Mrs. Piirala's son. It couldn't have been Albert. I had a crush on Albert. He wasn't crusty or grumpy, either. So who was that old man?

"Well, obviously," my mother said, "it was someone you've decided should have been in that barn." Right.

And that's how it's done. I, of course, don't take such liberties with historical fact. Someone could look it up, for heaven's sake. But my own memories are open to any manner of fictionalization. That's what's nice about memories. You're free to mold them, at any time, into the memory of your choices. (I think I should tell you, before you ask, that the stories I told about Charlie's mother and about Rita Kennedy (last week) were completely true — with characters like those two there's no need to fictionalize.)

But I'm digressing — as for that second reason not to recap in a column: Some columnists recap their own columns by quoting their own previous profundities. Jim

Romulus wins Midland cage title

Long, Mills spark Eagles to championship

Coach Al Wilkerson received a belated Christmas gift from his Romulus High cagers and it came in the form of a package unwrapped at the Midland Holiday Basketball Tournament.

Wilkerson's Eagles captured the tournament championship, stopping Saginaw and Midland for the coveted title.

"It was a good victory for us," Wilkerson said after his team trounced host, Midland, 59-48, in the finals. "We needed to win something like this to give us confidence."

"And I have to say that it was our over-all defense that did the trick. We gave up a total of 15 points in the first half to an excellent Midland team. That's great defense in anyone's book."

To get to the finals Romulus buried Saginaw 65-59, while Midland disposed of Mt. Pleasant, 51-42.

Romulus returned to familiar surroundings Tuesday night when they played host to Belleville.

Grant Long and Terry Mills combined for 13 of their team's 18 points as the Eagles established an 18-6 lead in the first period against Midland in the championship round. Long, named the tournament's Most Valuable Player, finished the night with individual scoring honors. He connected on nine field goals and was six of six at the field throw line for 24 points.

Mills, considered one of the top sophomores in the country this year, contributed 15 points. The 6-8 center also hauled in 15 rebounds and had 11 assists.

Midland unsuccessfully played for the percentage shots in the second period and managed to keep the scoring down, but Romulus still held a 10-point lead most of the initial half. Wilkerson's cagers departed for the locker room at the intermission ahead 28-15. They stayed in front 42-31 at the three-quarter mark. Each team had 17 points in the final frame.

"We didn't want to foul this team (Midland) because it is an excellent free-throw-shooting club," Wilkerson later explained. "And we managed to do what we set out to do. They got only seven free throws and made four."

However, Wilkerson was disappointed at his team's performance at the foul line where the Eagles capitalized on 15 of 36 offerings. "Believe me, these kids will be shooting more fouls during practice," he added.

Joining Long and Mills, who are nephews of former Romulus High and Detroit Piston cage great, Johnny Long, in the double figure scoring column was sophomore Stevie Glenn. Glenn tossed in 11 points.

Midland received an outstanding effort from 6-4 forward Joe Graunke who sank nearly half of his team's points. Graunke made nine field goals and also sacked three of three at the foul line for 21 points.

Long, who finished the two-game series with 44 points and 33 rebounds, was named the tournament's MVP. Also picked on the All-Tournament team were Mills (Romulus), Graunke (Midland), Al Tinsley (Saginaw), Paul Nethers (Mt. Pleasant) and Tim Brannan (Mt. Pleasant).

Romulus jumped out to a 10-6 lead in the preliminary game and built a 30-19 halftime edge before going on to the 65-59 victory over Saginaw. Saginaw's Tim Prince, a 6-3 forward, kept his team in the battle as he fired in 10 field goals and made five of eight at the foul line for a game high 25 points. Teammate Tinsley added 18, but they were the only players to hit in two figures for the losers.

Romulus clashes with Taylor Center Friday afternoon in its first appearance in the newly-formed Metro West Conference, ending more than a decade search for a conference. The game is at the Pontiac Silverdome.

MHSSS picks cage district locations

Although few coaches and prep cage teams are thinking about "March Madness" these days, the Michigan High School Athletic Association is. The MHSA released last week the hosts schools for the 1984 boys district basketball tournament championships.

The tournaments will be conducted the week of March 5 through March 10.

Belleville and Romulus, which usually find themselves locked in struggle at Ypsilanti, finally will be given the opportunity to face Ypsi, a perennial district champ, on a neutral court.

Temperance Bedford High has been designated as the District 4 tournament site. Joining the host will be the two local teams along with Adrian, Monroe, and Ypsilanti.

Plymouth Canton will also serve as a host school for the 20th District where the Chiefs will have natural rival, Plymouth Salem, to contend with as well as Westland John Glenn, Wayne Memorial and Northville. This district will also see the return of head coach Gordie Davis who is back at the helm of the Rockets of John Glenn after an absence of nearly five years.

Livonia Churchill and athletic director Larry Joiner will play host to the other three city high schools: Bentley, Franklin and Stevenson. Also scheduled to see action at Churchill is Garden City.

Most of the area's Class B representatives will gather at Dearborn Heights Robichaud to determine the district title. Slated for appearances there are Robichaud, Inkster, Cherry Hill, Dearborn Divine Child, Annapolis, and Crestwood.

New Boston Huron will compete in the Milan High district and will be joined by Carleton-Airport, Milan, Saline, Ypsi Lincoln and Willow Run.

The winners in each of the districts will advance to regional competition scheduled for March 13 to 17. District champs from Canton, Temperance, Dearborn and Lincoln Park will meet at Eastern Michigan University for the Class A regional title.

Riverview will host the Class B district champs from the Robichaud, Grosse Ile, St. Clair Shores and River Rouge districts to determine the regional winner.

In the meantime, Long amassed 20 points, and Glenn had 14 while Mills accounted for 13 to provide the Eagles with the balance they needed for their third win in four starts.

"We got a lot of baskets off of our press," Wilkerson noted, "and Long also drilled in 10 of his 20 points in the second period which gave us a comfortable margin. We led by as much as 19 points at one time in this game."

It was Tinsley who brought back the Saginaw quintet as he found the target for 10 consecutive points late in the game. Saginaw managed to come within eight points before the Eagles widened the margin.

Romulus will open up its inaugural Metro West Conference campaign Friday at 5 p.m. against Taylor Center at the Pontiac Silverdome. Tickets are available at the high school. The spectators will also see the Detroit Pistons-New York Knicks' game for the admission price of $5.50. Tickets also may be obtained from Romulus High's Lowell Johnson.

Moves of a champion

distinction of being the best at the two-game tourney. Romulus will travel to the Pontiac Silverdome on Friday to open up its inaugural Metro-West Conference campaign against Taylor Center. The Eagles were 4-1 on the season, going into this week's action and excluding last night's game against arch-rival, Belleville.

Area winter recreation programs offer wide range of activities

Local recreation departments are capitalizing on the winter and snow. They've organized a score of programs that will help keep residents in physical shape and are fun to participate in.

The Romulus Recreation Department is currently accepting registration for its winter session of adult and youth recreation programs.

Flyers, with detailed information about the programs, have been sent home with school children, according to Dennis Davidson, parks and recreation director.

Anyone wishing to register or obtain a flyer may do so this week at the Recreation offices, 36515 Bibbins Street, during week days or from 10 a.m. until noon on Sat., Jan. 7.

The Canton Parks and Recreation Department has joined with the Wayne-Westland YMCA to offer a popular "Dynamic Aerobics" course. The course is for eight weeks.

Dynamics aerobics is a lot of fun and vigorous exercise set to music and designed to improve cardiorespiratory fitness, notes Bob Dates, recreation employee.

The instructor for the course is Jackie Rundelland. Further information may be obtained by telephoning 397-1000 between the hours of 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The Canton Parks and Recreation Department is located at 1150 South Canton Center Road.

In conjunction with the Rose Shores of Canton, the Canton Recreation Department is also offering beginner racquetball lessons starting Jan. 10. The hour between 10:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. has been set aside for the class.

There is a $16 per person registration fee and class size is limited therefore participants will be picked on a first come, first serve basis.

Huron grid coach quits

New Boston Huron High is shopping around for a new head football coach. Jamie

JAMIE HINOJOSA

Hinojosa, who has had three frustrating seasons with the Chiefs, submitted his resignation to the Board of Education and the board, with regrets, accepted it.

Hinojosa, a former "Huron High grid star, was called upon to field a team that had lost a handful of its regulars to neighboring communities because it wasn't certain whether the school district would be able to fund the sport.

Huron Athletic Boosters raised the money for the program, however, not before the grid team's ranks were dissipated by defections. The Chiefs failed to win in their eight starts last season.

Which would you prefer... a higher stated interest rate or more money?

Michigan National compounds interest monthly to pay you more money for your money

Higher stated interest rates on Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) may sound good initially. But, if you're interested in earning more money for your money, consider the effects of Michigan National's monthly compounding of interest versus other banks' simple interest method of payment.

Earn interest on your interest

A minimum deposit of only $50 at Michigan National earns interest each month. So, month by month, year after year you continually earn interest on your interest.

Most other banks, however, pay interest on a simple basis.

No compounding.

No payment of interest on your interest.

That's why other banks can quote a higher rate, and yet, pay less interest over the lifetime of your investment.

Don't be fooled by high interest IRA claims.

Invest your retirement savings with Michigan National where your IRA will earn more money for your money with monthly compounding.

Need a loan to fund your IRA?

Borrow up to your annual IRA contribution limit at preferred rates to take advantage of 1983 or 1984 tax deductions. Then write off interest payments for an additional tax savings. Ask for details on the advantages of an IRA loan at any branch office.

Corporation Banks

Substantial penalties and tax liabilities imposed for withdrawal from IRA prior to age 59½, except in cases of death or disability. Withdrawals must begin by age 70½. Member F.D.I.C.

Carriers of the Week John and Larry Kasparak

Attempting to track down John and Larry Kasparak is no easy task.

The two Wayne youths are always busy, and manage to do a number of things very well. They are both honor roll students at Franklin Junior High School and have also been honored as Carriers of the Week by the Associated Newspapers Circulation Department.

John, 13, has 35 customers on his route while his brother, Larry, 12 delivers the Wayne Eagle to more than 54 homes. John enjoys collecting hats, "he has a room full of them," says his mom, and adding to his array of rock group pins. Larry's hobbies include sports and stamp collecting.

While both the boys are still unsure of their career goals, Larry is interested in architecture and John has thought about veterinary science as a future occupation.

The boys started with one route which they delivered together for about a year, but have each had their own customers near their Annapolis home for two years.

John marks Spanish and English as his favorite school subjects while Larry enjoys math and gym.

The boys are the sons of Sandra and John Kasparak of Wayne.

Nominations of carriers customers feel are doing an exemplary job are accepted by Circulation Director Bob Turon at 729-4000 during regular business hours.

Elwell gets living gift

If you would have driven by Elwell Elementary School recently, you would have seen "Space Invaders", "Q Berts" and "Centipedes" planting three trees.

These names represent patrols that make up Junior Troop #589 of the Elwell cluster of Girl Scouts.

The project was overseen by Jerry Pasek, owner of Tree-O, who donated the trees. Jerry and his assistants also instructed the troop in other gardening skills, such as; pruning trees, trimming shrubs and general cleaning of the school grounds.

6C Motion by Lambert, supported by Baumann, to adopt the following resolution:
WHEREAS: Act No. 255 of the Public Acts of 1978 is designed to provide a stimulus in the form of significant tax incentives to industry to renovate and/or expand aging plants and to build new plants in Michigan; and

WHEREAS: Under the provisions of the Act, a local governmental unit in which the total property tax is at least thirty (30) mills may establish property tax incentives to attract new plants to the area; and

WHEREAS: Said Act provides that a firm may apply for and be issued a Commercial Development Exemption Certificate which entitles the facility to exemption from ad valorem real and personal property taxes for a period of twelve (12) years. In lieu of the property tax, the firm will pay a specific tax known as the Commercial Development Tax. The Commercial Development Tax for a new plant in a Commercial Development District is determined by the ad valorem property tax levied by the municipality instead, however, of using the total mills levied, only half the millage rate is applied; and

WHEREAS: Said Act provides that seventy-five (75%) percent of the owners of property to be affected by any proposed commercial development district may apply to the local governmental unit for the establishment of a commercial district; and

WHEREAS: Stair Realty did on November 18, 1983, submit a request to the City of Romulus to establish a commercial development district, its description as follows.

WHEREAS: A part of the Northeast ¼ of Section 13, Town 3 South, Range 9 East, City of Romulus, Wayne County, Michigan and being more particularly described as follows:
Beginning at a point on the North and South ¼ line of section 13, distant due South 669.20 feet from the North ¼ post of Section 13, thence South 407.13 feet, thence North 89 degrees 52 minutes 40 seconds West 500.00 feet, thence due North 409.79 feet to the point of beginning. 4.28 acres

WHEREAS: Stair Realty represents more than seventy-five (75%) percent of the property owners to be included in the aforementioned district as required by the provisions of Public Act 255; and

WHEREAS: Public Act 255 requires that a public hearing be held to hear any objections to, and all reasons for, the establishment of such a commercial development district when a request is received by the local municipality for the establishment of such a district; and

WHEREAS: The City Council of the City of Romulus is cognizant of the critical employment situation existing within its corporate limits compounded by an equally critical employment situation in the State and indeed the county; and

WHEREAS: The establishment of the requested commercial development district would go far to encourage National Properties Company to continue with additional projects on this site resulting in additional jobs for the citizens of the City of Romulus, as well as, a substantial increase to the City's tax base.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the City Council of City of Romulus hold a Public Hearing on January 9, 1984, at 7:00 p.m. in the Romulus City Council Chamber, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan to take testimony from any and all parties having reason to support the establishment of the requested commercial development district.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That copies of this resolution be forwarded to all property owners within the proposed boundaries of said commercial development district, to all units of government currently levying ad valorem tax on property included in the proposed commercial development district, notice of public hearing to be published at least once in the official newspaper of the City of Romulus not less than ten (10) days preceding the hearing.

Sweet dreams, little one!

There's a timelessness about classified because its usefulness is not limited by the age of those who benefit from its services. There's a timeliness to classified as well. When the parents of this newborn needed a baby bed, they found one advertised at a bargain price because some other youngster outgrew it.

If you need a bed for your youngster, or simply want to turn unused baby furniture into extra cash, classified has the answer.

... by denny campbell

The best way I can think of for a car, truck or motorcycle enthusiast to start the new year off is to attend Autorama, Jan. 6, 7, 8 at Cobo Hall. And, what a show it's going to be! "We're expecting attendance to be in excess of last year's total of 137,000" said Tom Williams, general manager of the show. "With the car and star lineup we have, the Detroit Autorama could approach a record level this year — if the weather cooperates." Well, we know what he means, right?

The cars and stars he refers to are impressive: The English Leather Turbo-T (seen before in this column), the Knight Rider K.I.T.T. Car — I suspect that stands for Knight Industries Trans-Am Take-off, not to mention USA-1, the world's largest 4x4 pickup truck and literally hundreds of other custom and display cars, vans and antique cars.

And surely I must mention an appearance by George Barris, the King of Kustomizers — boy, does his name bring back memories for this one!!! It seems like every car mag I bought from 14 on featured one of his cars, or at least one of his ideas! Do any of you recall his treatments of 49-51 Mercury 2-doors? These ended up being his favorite, as he looks back — and it shows! Close your eyes and conjure up the following vision — a '49 Merc 2-door lowered, top chopped 4 inches, 'B' pillar removed, headlights frenched, door handles shaved, '49 Buick chrome side spear applied, bubble skirts with a toothed vent at the leading edge — can you see it??? What a guy!

Today, Barris is the best known automotive technical advisor to the film industry, as well as a producer. He still keeps his hand in auto design plus has a 150-car collection to keep him busy! Stop by and see him at Cobo Hall!

And, as you Grand Touring Motorcyclists can see, Mark Gilbert has 1200 Gold Wings at Honda City. The look on his face tells you how pleased he is with Honda's reworking of the nine-year-old legend. Purists will notice the new fairing right off — it is wind tunnel designed to purvey air over and around the riders, as well as stabilize the bike. Even the side cases and rear trunk were influenced by the wind tunnel tests, providing over 8800 cubic inches of storage as they act as efficiency pieces to guide air over and around the bike! Mechanically, the big news is the 1182 cc engine with hydraulic valve adjuster system that eliminates valve adjustments, a solid state electronic ignition, coupled through a self-adjusting hydraulic clutch to Honda's famous trouble free shaft drive — hey, I can understand Mark being happy, but his service manager is going to be out of a job, if Honda keeps this up! Now, we counted over 53 items or options that should be mentioned about this bike, but I'm not allowed that much space, so you've got two choices—get over to Honda City and check 'em out, or see the Honda City guys at Cyclorama, a part of Autorama, this weekend at Cobo Hall. By the way, Mark pointed out that this is an American bike — it's built in Marysville, Ohio, along with the V65 Magna and Sabre — more on this later. Winter prices prevail at Honda City, the largest exclusive Honda dealer in the State of Michigan, as well as the second largest Honda scooter dealer in the United States.

Mark Gilbert displays the 1200 Honda Goldwing.

While I was reminiscing about George Barris, I got this idea — what about picking a nice spring Saturday at a local drive-in movie, show "Rebel Without a Cause," "American Graffiti" and let anybody in with a '20s through '60s rod, car or truck for a buck — a real '50s party? Any volunteers out there to organize this bash? We'll try and raise some money for a charity, too. Write or call us at the paper if you're interested or have an idea.

Next week begins a look at some features that can be added to your car and truck.
